

“Blind in his love and best befits the dark.”

Benvolio: Act II Scene i

This quote was said by Benvolio in act two scene one. This quote was said when Benvolio, and Mercutio where walking home and they saw Romeo walking into the woods. They started talking about why he had been so depressed lately and the quote came up. This basically means that Romeo was blinded by his love to Roselyn that he was so depressed when she rejected his proposal of marriage and he likes to stay up in his dark room instead of enjoying life. Today this quote can refer to a major break up between couples of many years. If you and your girlfriend break up there can be depression involved with both sides of the break up.
